To Washington

Capital of our Nation, from whom we derive a love of Peace and Education, we dedicate the 1940 Brecky.

FOREWORD

The "Brecky" of 1940 is dedicated to the city of Washington. It is most fitting that we should pay tribute to our nation's capital because by doing so we demonstrate our devotion to the form of government which exists here—a democratic government.

In a world which shows no respect for personal rights and liberties, we, the senior class at Central, should charge ourselves to be defenders of the democratic way, the American way.

Graduation marks the termination of the period of our training at Central. But before we graduate, we wish to thank the faculty for its unselfish work in building our characters so that we may better fulfill our life's tasks and serve our country better by good citizenship.

This has been Central's gift to each one of us in the graduating class. Let us hope that this gift will be preserved and appreciated by each one of us in the years to come.

TO THE CLASS OF 1940

The great public buildings of Washington came into being as a result of a need for the housing of certain activities. The need in each case was expressed first by a rough plan; then architects were employed; specifications drawn up; bids were called for; a contract awarded; and the building constructed in accordance with the architect's plans. Specifications called for certain kinds and qualities of materials. Each step in the construction was carefully supervised and inspected in order to insure the adherence to plan and contract with respect to workmanship, materials, and construction. A great building is not constructed casually, and for a few years. It is dedicated to the ages. For its completion materials are summoned from all points of the compass and all parts of the world. Some of the materials are ageless, prepared in time's cataclysmic laboratories; other produced by living organisms under the beneficent ministry of sun and air and earth and water. But all are combined into a unit of beauty and utility and strength and agelessness.

Longfellow drew an analogy between building construction and manly, vigorous, useful living. "All," he said, "are architects of fate." Each of us is working toward the completion of a unit. Each, it is to be hoped, has a clear and definite plan. Specifications call for only the best of materials properly and perfectly built into the growing structure. Materials are drawn from the vast stores of the accumulated truth and wisdom and beauty of the past and of the present. These, built into our experiences, combine into a life of beauty and utility and strength and agelessness.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

Rutherford Day

In nineteen hundred thirty-one the Student Council was formed at Central for the purpose of promoting a stronger feeling of friendship between faculty and students, giving aid to all plans made by organizations of the school, and to give the students an opportunity to aid themselves and each other by participating in the various types of work conducted by this organization.

The General Council is composed of representatives from each section, two students from every upper-semester section, and one from every lower-semester section. They make and pass all laws governing the students of Central.

The Executive Council, composed of twenty members of the General Council, acts as a guiding body for the more unwieldly group. Its members are elected by the General Council, and each semester chooses its own representatives.

The Coaching Committee is an important part of our organization. This body is under the supervision of Norman Nessul, Administrator of Student Instruction, and Miss Baker, who has so unselfishly devoted much of her time to the group.

Miss Louise M. Moore, our faculty adviser, has been very active in the work of the Council, notwithstanding her many other duties, and to her we owe a debt of gratitude for doing more than her share of the work, and for her painstaking effort in putting over the Christmas drive and in allotting us our work each day.

I should like to take this opportunity to thank my Vice-Presidents, Victoria Paul, Hugh McNeal, and James Porter for their cooperation in all the things the Council has undertaken.

Every year at Christmas time it is the policy of the Student Council to conduct a drive for the purpose of aiding certain families who otherwise would not have the chance to partake of the festive holiday spirit. This season our contributions far surpassed those of last, and exceeded our goal in such fashion as to demonstrate the truly beneficent spirit of our school. Other minor drives such as the "March of Dimes", showed Central, as always, giving a good account of itself.

Among other activities the Student Council has presented many enjoyable assemblies to the student body in the term during which I have been a member.

We have revised the rules governing the awarding of the Central "C", for the betterment of the players and the raising of the standards of our athletes generally. We have aided in selecting a new nickname for the teams—"Vikings"—along with the necessary work and publicity connected therewith as also with the "Spring Swing".

Work has been started on a handbook of Central, which will materially help new pupils to become more readily acquainted with the school's varied activities.

One of the most interesting and pleasing of our duties is the maintaining of a study-hall for new pupils. It is a heart-warming sight, with not a little nostalgia, to view new faces, among which we see our own and those of our friends as we were such a short time ago.

I believe there are great possibilities in our student government; that is our Student Council, for it has progressed more each year. If it continues to do so, we cannot hope for more. TENAX PROPOSITI!

THE REVIEW

James Deane

Central High School's "Review," venerable veteran of fifty-two years of service to Central and Centralites, has gone through a good many changes since its founding. No longer the newspaper of 1886, nor the newspaper-magazine hybrid of another period in its publication, today, for better or worse, the "Review" has altered itself again.

This year the sedate, red-bound volumes of the "Review" found themselves looking out from their shelf upon a staff that had as its object broadening of the magazine's scope beyond that of a purely literary magazine. Excellent—if an editor may be permitted to speak so—as has been the "Review's" literary quality in the past few years, the editors of '39-'40 believed that by converting the "Review" into more of a general magazine, at the same time maintaining its high literary standard, the "Review" might be made of more value and appeal to Ceneral's students.

The result has been an altering of both the content and the appearance of 1940's "Review," involving, in respect to content, emphasis on non-fiction features, inclusion of many photographs, and a general effort toward variety. The use of a standard, two-color design and colorful paper for the cover, and of a new, special weave paper for the magazine proper, and various innovations in type-faces and make-up have characterized the typographical side.

Altogether, the editors feel that the year for the "Review" has been successful. It is hoped that the "Review" of 1939-1940 has been an addition to the life of the school, and that any advances it may have made will serve to make the "Review" and the school of next year and every year bigger and better than ever.

THE BULLETIN

Ann Wickard

This year the Central "Bulletin" has attempted to continue the high standard of last year's paper, at the same time inaugurating many new features.

The most important change in appearance has been that of the pictures. Instead of one hundred screen, which is magazine size, sixty-five screen has been used, a change which has been responsible for increased clearness in pictures. This necessitated the gradual abandonment of all old cuts in the file of the "Bulletin".

A new method of making cartoons on chalk has been tried out this year, and has proved successful. An increase in the number of cuts and pictures has contributed much to the interest of all four pages.

The business staff has proved its success by the increase of percentage of subscriptions over any previous year. About fifty-three per cent of the school's total attendance subscribe to the "Bulletin".

Since 1940 is Leap Year, the girls on the publications' business and editorial staffs and the art department collaborated on a Leap Year Bulletin, an innovation in the "Bulletin's" history. The occasion was a Leap Year Dance, given by the girls of the school for the boys, on February 29. This issue was given free to every person in Central, through the cooperation of most of the outstanding organizations at Central. The paper was "Baby Bulletin" size, but consisted of eight pages instead of the usual four.

The "Bulletin" won the All-American Honor rating in the National Scholastic Press Association contest, for the first semester of this year. This is the highest possible rating, and had been won before by last year's staff the second semester.

Although there was no first semester journalism class the second half of this year, the second semester class and the editorial staffs continued to devote time and effort to the work of publishing a high school paper interesting to all.

MOONBEAMS

Ruth Buchanan '40

Like a cataract of silver dreams,
The tarnished flood of moonlight streams
Down through an abyss in a blue cloud rent
By passing winds, destruction bent,
And melts over all the world.

Like a filar path to the pearly moon,
The beams gleam up; and the clouds are soon
Again riding in lazy state
To keep a now immortal date
With banners there unfurled.

From that satellite that flees around
The earth, from something yet unfound.
Is this filament descending down
To smother and eventually drown
The sphere over which it is hurled.

Like a spinning wheel, the moon lets fly
Those silky threads from that skein on high,
And the great black loom weaves a silver birth
Of veils to permeate the earth,
When over the globe they are curled.

Like a canvas sail for that crescent boat,
The rays ripple gently as down they float,
And the breeze sends the ship on, sailing across
That cerulean chasm of flickering floss,
An ocean richly pearled.

With the eternal glance of its mother star
Reflected on it from afar,
The moon saturates the blue, bright night
And warms the darkness with its light
Before away it is twirled.

THE CENTRAL CADET CORPS

William C. Phillips

The year 1939-1940 was one of particular importance to the Cadet Corps, since September 1, 1939 marked the adoption of the new infantry drill regulations as designated by the War Department. On October 24, 1939, Company "E" of the 34th Infantry, located at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, gave a splendid demonstration of the new drill for the Corps, some two thousand strong, in the Central High School Stadium.

The new regulations tend to promote precision through being more flexible and more easily maneuvered than the old. The men march with a greater interval between them, and the squad now forms in a single rank. A change was also made in the cadence which was a decrease from one hundred and twenty-eight steps per minute to one hundred and twenty steps per minute.

The Map Problems Team which is usually formed each year to teach combat tactics was not organized this season because the Corps felt it was necessary to devote all its efforts to the changed rules. The team will be organized next year after the close order drill is better understood.

Paul L. Doerr, the military instructor at Central, was promoted to the rank of Captain, Infantry Reserve, on February 15, 1940. Captain Doerr takes keen interest in the instruction of the regiment and appreciates the effort on the part of the cadets to carry out the new regulations.

The Cadet Corps has as its chief aim the building of character. Self-respect, pride, confidence, respect and friendliness between individuals are important elements in the discipline that is employed to train character. All of these are to be found in the Cadet Corps.

FROM PIGSKIN TO CINDERPATH

Francile Jones

During the football season Central inaugurated night games, which proved to be successful and satisfactory. One of the greatest victories of the year was that in which Central vanquished Wilson, 47-0. A crowd of sixty-five hundred people watched the game in which Central defeated her old rival, Tech, 17-7.

For the Thanksgiving game the team took a three-day trip to Portsmouth, Virginia where they played the Woodrow Wilson High School team of that city. Benny Steiner's place-kick was the margin of victory, the score being 7-6.

The five blue gridders named on the all-star team were: Richard Farr, left end; Jack Wilhelm, center; Dan Magnuson, right tackle; Benny Steiner, quarterback; and Harry Martin, halfback.

Basketball started with a new coach, Mr. Woodworth, who had twenty-two years of basketball experience behind him. Central surprised everyone when it pulled one of the biggest upsets of the year by defeating Eastern, 24-21. The team finished second in percentage, and third in standing by winning over its perennial rival, Western, for that place.

The Physical Education Department, the "Bulletin," and the Student Council sponsored a contest to give Central's athletic team a nickname. The "C" Club's entry, the "Vikings" was the popular choice.

Albert Hayden, a senior, was given a distinct honor when he was offered the first invitation to enter the six-sixty in the Maryland fifth regimental track meet at Baltimore. Only the best are offered this invitation, and Albert further honored himself and the school by winning.

Several "C" Club seniors including Benny Steiner, Bill Fisher, and Patrick Fenlon attracted major league baseball scouts by their efforts on the Viking nine.

The Physical Education Department launched an inter-sectional track meet in which the boys took a great deal of interest. Benny Steiner added to his basketball, football, and baseball laurels, additional ones in track. He brought 11-8, a senior section, in first.

Throughout the year the students of Central seemed to have taken even greater interest in the school sports than formerly. The coaches have had excellent material with which to work and the school has been well rewarded by the efforts of the different teams.

CENTRAL SONG

FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!

Fight for victory and honor
Fight for dear old Alma Mater
Fight with all your might and power
To win another game today.
We'll cheer to help you win the battle
Giving everything we have
So fight for victory and honor
For our school today.

CENTRAL SONG

Tenax Propositi

Steadfast of purpose, march along
With dauntless step to martial song!
Though we are young our school is old
And battles won should make us bold
If clear our purpose be.
Ours not to blaze an untrod way
Through woods that hide the light of day
For Central's vanguard long ago
Made smooth the road whereon we go,
With many a victory.

Chorus

March onward! March with lifted eyes!
On yonder goal our banner flies!
Sing, sing triumphantly,
Tenax Propositi.

ESPERANTO CLUB

LOUISE ODOR and PHYLLIS LANDIS

If one Monday afternoon you chanced upon a group of students talking in a strange language and if you were greeted by "Bonan Tagon. Cu vi parolas Esperanton?" you would guess immediately that it was a meeting of the Esperanto Club. These words would mean merely "Good day. Do you speak Esperanto?"

This new organization with Miss Lacaze as adviser was founded by Betty Michelson in September. It was thought that the students would be interested in learning Esperanto, an international language.

Thomas Goldman, the instructor, converses only in Esperanto with the members during the meeting, using no textbook. When the fundamentals of the language are learned, the club will correspond with Esperantists in foreign countries.

The officers are: President, Betty Michelson; Vice-Officer, Janet Harlow; Recording Secretary, Honora Thompson; Corresponding Secretary, Claire Michelson; Treasurer, Doris Glassman.

We hope that this club will continue its fine work and help to establish understanding between America and distant lands.

FENCING CLUB

PHYLLIS LANDIS

D'Artagnan of Gascony would have been well pleased with the Fencing Club, another new organization at Central, whose faculty adviser is Mr. Pearce. Its members are both masculine and feminine, but the former are decidedly in the majority.

The meetings, which are held in the Armory on Tuesday, are conducted in the form of classes, the very able instructor being Alfredo, one of the most outstanding fencers in Washington. There are several "grades", starting with the beginners who are taught the fundamentals of the art, and climaxing with the Fencing Team, which consists of six of the best fencers in the organization, and three substitutes. This team fights with those of other schools and has been very successful this year. Medals and awards can be won by individuals.

The club is officered by Rutherford Day, president; Edward Meares, vice-president; and Louis Thompson, secretary-treasurer.

GOLF CLUB

LOUISE ODOR and PHYLLIS LANDIS

From all reports of the Golf Club, formed by Miss Chappell and the members of her golf classes, we understand that we have some future pros, but we are still waiting to hear of that hole in one. Each Tuesday after school the members meet at the Rock Creek Golf Course. There is a requirement that all new members know the rules of etiquette of the golf course.

The officers are: President, Sachie Nishio; Vice-President, Marguerite Burns; Secretary-Treasurer, Barbara Melville. The tournament planned will give the members an opportunity to win their "C's."

We are certain this club will continue to bring together those people who are interested in, and like to play golf.

THE RADIO GUILD

Victoria Paul

One day three years ago an American History class accidentally stumbled upon an idea which later resulted in the organization of one of Central's most active clubs —The Radio Guild.

How did a history class have anything to do with the forming of a radio guild? Well, it was this way. Many of the students in Mrs. Filmer's American History class were intensely interested in dramatics. After finding out this fact, and always wanting to make her classes as interesting as possible for her pupils, Mrs. Filmer decided that it would be more interesting to teach certain phases of history through drama. She wrote to the Radio Division of the Interior and secured from them several excellent scripts dealing with American History. One of these was "Washington, the Farmer" which, incidentally, was the first presentation of the Radio Guild on the air.

The reading of these scripts in class met with such great approval that some of the students decided to carry the work outside of school. Thus the Radio Guild of Central High School was born. The first meeting was called in a very short time. Officers were elected and a constitution drafted. Then a drive was made for more members and the response was overwhelming. Instead of having to beg the pupils to join, (as is usually the case with new organizations) the charter members found it necessary to make a waiting list of over fifty students. Yes, by the second meeting the Radio Guild had attracted approximately one hundred twenty-five Centralites.

A club such as this was destined to great things—and it has. During the three years of its existence the Guild has made numerous broadcasts over local stations. Some of them were very good; others not so good. However, we have benefited by all these programs, for in preparing for them we were given an opportunity to get practical experience in radio technique. We profited by our poor programs as well, for we learned what to look out for in our next broadcasts.

Between broadcasts, which were on an average of one every two months, we were kept busy obtaining better training in radio technique. This was handled by dividing the Guild into groups and placing leaders at the head of each. Each leader was given the responsibility of seeing to it that his group was ready for an entertainment on an appointed week. The president selected three critics at the beginning of each presentation, and it was the duty of these critics to notice and bring to the attention of the group any flaw in the entertainment. In this way we were able to improve our programs as we went along.

The members really were in earnest about making these programs entertaining. Original script-writing and song writing is encouraged. You can go into our files anytime and find numerous good plays written by present or former members.

Not only do we have fun giving these programs, but we have been very pleasantly surprised with parties at Christmas and Easter. In general, the Radio Guild has accomplished much during the two and a half years it has functioned, thanks to the helpful guidance of Mrs. Filmer, and we expect it to accomplish a great deal more in the future.

THE DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

Alice Gartrell

The Dramatic Association of Central High School has accomplished more this year than it had ever hoped for.

Because of the shortage of male thespians and the birth of so many new activities, we feared we would not be able to carry out a well-rounded program.

Sadly enough our fears were realized, and from October to January we produced only one public performance. This was a Christmas play, given in December just before we left school for the holidays.

Short one-act plays were given within the club during this period, but they are part of our organized routine.

Given solely for the purpose of practice in memorizing lines and regulating rehearsals, they help us immensely, and when the time comes to prepare an outside play, we have no difficulties with the fundamentals of producing, because we have already learned them and adapted ourselves accordingly.

But February brought a turn of events. An increased number of boys joined the club and every single person was willing to devote unlimited time for rehearsing, which is always necessary if one intends to reach a point of finesse in acting.

After the hubbub of beginning a new semester had subsided, we settled down to work. In the short time from the beginning of March to the end of April, we produced four public performances, in addition to the plays given within the club as usual.

Two of these were assembly plays; one was given for the Parent Teacher's Association; and the fourth was our crowning glory, the melodrama for Spring Swing.

Since the melodrama of last year was so well-liked at The Fair, the Dramatic Association was asked to give another.

We chose "He Ain't Done Right by Nell", a farce about a diminutive little orphan and the "deep-dyed" villain who tries to ruin her romance with poor, but honest, Jack Logan.

The skit was a wonderful success, and further established our ability as actors.

While some of us were working on these plays, others were just as energetically working on the separate departments of the club.

We catalogued the plays and books that had been accumulated, and now we have a library of which to be proud.

The clothes in the costume lockers were cleaned and listed chronologically. The former complicated mass of costumes and properties is now a complete wardrobe.

An entire, new make-up kit was purchased, and we set about teaching the new members the art of make-up, as well as the art of acting.

And now, those of us who are being graduated, leave our work to be carried on by our successors. We know they shall dutifully perform their tasks, and help to make the club even better than it is. The Dramatic Association shall live as long as there is a line to memorize, a piece of stage business to learn, or a play to give.

NIGHT MOODS

Jack Snyder '40

When the pin-point stars push their way through the purple velvet night,
When the moon is the shoulder-clasp on the soft toga of darkness,
Then would I walk on a long road over the hill and look up through the winter gauntness of the tall trees.
When the ember stars glow through the heavy grate of the night sky,
After the flame and turquoise sunset has burned to gray ashes,
Then would I wander down a leafy lane while the breeze brings to me the soft smell of the fields.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Stanley LaVallee

Character, scholarship, leadership, service: these are the four objectives of the National Honor Society. It is on this basis that candidates are chosen for the society.

Application blanks are sent to the upper third of the class in the sixth, seventh, and eighth semesters. On these blanks the pupils list their activities and honors to indicate their leadership and service.

The society is honorary, and it has over 2,200 chapters all over the country with over 250,000 members. Any member is entitled to a half tuition scholarship at Drake University in Iowa after graduation.

The officers of the society are elected by the members each semester. They are not eligible for reelection. The offices of president and treasurer are reserved for boys; those of vice-president and secretary for the girls.

Ever since the Alpha Chapter was formed here at Central in February, 1926, it has been an incentive for scholarship and service to the school. The ideals and objectives of the National Honor Society are clearly shown in the pledge, taken by every member:

"I will be a loyal member of the Alpha Chapter of the National Honor Society, steadfast in my purpose to abide by the right, to serve all just causes, and to seek the truth with my whole heart both in books and in life."

MY SOLDIER

Ruth Buchanan '40

I loved him
As he left that day.
I kissed him
When he went away.

I missed him
Through that endless May.
I knelt each night
For him to pray.

I mourned him
When, dead, there he lay—
I hate them,
For they had their way.

RAINS

Betty Bond '40

Have you ever thought,
On a rainy day,
What a difference there is in rains?
Some rains are dark and gloomy;
Others are soft and gray.
Cold autumn rains are saddening;
Warm April showers are gay.
Can't you tell when a rain is friendly?
I can, right away.

GYRATIONS

VALEDICTORY

Ruth Beed Morgan

If we were to paraphrase the farewell of Dido in Virgil's "Aeneid", we should say,

Our life at Central is done.
We have accomplished what our lot allowed;
And now our spirit to the open road of life in royal honor goes.

In fairy tales, when children are grown, the father divides the inheritance among them and sends them out upon the high road to seek their fortunes.

Today we are graduating—setting out upon the open road of life. For almost a score of years we have been under the protecting guidance of teachers and parents. They have given so freely of themselves, intangibly and materially: knowledge, training, help, friendship, love, a home, and a wealth of hopes and plans.

And now we are grown. Today our inheritance is to be divided among us that we may go out into the world, like the children in fairy tales, to seek our fortunes.

Hendrik Willem Van Loon believes that giving your children "something for nothing" is the worst thing you can do for them. And this precept is one part of our inheritance. We have been taught by experience as well as by our teachers that anything unearned and unmerited is but temporary. The simple is ever the greatest. And that fact is prerequisite knowledge for every successful man or woman. Each one of these students graduating today intends to become successful in some way or other. But be his success little or great, it will not come without effort.

There are those, no doubt, who will lament our barren heritage from life and the world: a country, fighting debt and unemployment and striving desperately to keep free of the insidious network of foreign affairs; a world torn near and far by wars of jealousy and hatred; a world demanding that everything be reduced to the lowest terms—even the ideals and ambitions of its youth.

Let them lament if they will. We will look farther into our inheritance. There we will find courage and a steadfast determination to acquire success in peace and happiness for ourselves if we cannot do it for the world. Thus armed, we may confront the mourners and say, "You may sit back and bemoan our fate, but we are going out and fight for a better one!"

Ability to distinguish between right and wrong is a part of our inheritance that may prove difficult in practical use; it may even lead to serious conflict. But if it has really been instilled into our character, it will never entirely slip away from us.

How important it is: this being able to select the true and important facts from the hordes of those sweeping toward us down the open road; the sincere doctrines from the sefishly motivated ones; the right men to listen to and follow.

This ability that never quite deserts us is one of the intangible gifts of our education.

And yet another parting gift; capacity for remembrance; ability to keep unfaded the pictures of life at Central: friends, clubs, teams, plays, books, assemblies,—all these and more, for later on they will all, good or bad, seem dear to us. How clear the pictures will be of the teachers who have helped us earn our heritage and the friends who have made that earning pleasant.

If we could relive other graduations, hear other valedictories, we should find in them all a note of sadness—regret that the graduates now leave friends behind and go out into the world to make their way. Yet why should graduation be sad? There are few of us indeed who have not been planning what we will do when we are "on our own" and waiting with impatience for the day. This is one of the climaxes of our lives.

As for our friends, we sincerely hope to meet them again. If this is not to be, at least we have the capacity for remembering them. The ultimate destiny of everyone is to become a memory. Like the fire whose warm bright glow keeps wild animals at a safe distance, these memories will guide us through the "Slough of Despond" we are bound to meet, shielding us from discouragement and even despair.

"If we do meet again, why, we shall smile;
"If not, why then, this parting was well made."

MID-YEAR CLASS HISTORY

Barbara Thal

"What we mean by history is the revelation of man's nature in action and intelligence."

Although these words were uttered many years ago by Bernard Bosanquet, a noted English philosopher, they still apply today. They pertain not only to great military victories, declarations of war or such world-shaking events. They include, for instance, the very gratifying history of Central High School, which has, in action and intelligence been outstanding among high schools in the city of Washington.

In February, 1936 a group of eager young freshmen entered Central, determined to make their school proud of them. Many have attained their goal, but all will leave with a deep satisfaction that they have had some part, whether small or large, in helping their school gain the coveted honors it has won in the past four years. One has been a star on a championship football team; another an editor of a school publication; still others have contributed by being ardent spectators cheering with all their strength for Central.

Among the first school productions introduced to the new students were the three publications: the Bulletin, the only high school newspaper issued weekly in Washington, the Review, the only magazine of its kind in the District, and the yearbook, the Brecky. Each of these publications is the best of its kind, something the freshmen were not long in discovering.

Leading the many events which have occurred since 1936 was the spring play, "Captain Applejack." This was a pronounced success and it warmed every freshman's heart and made him throw his chest out with just a little more pride to know that his school could produce entertainment of such high quality.

But greater things were yet to come, for that same year before a capacity crowd at Griffith Stadium, Central won first place in the annual Competitive Drill.

Our baseball team was also quite active during this time, placing second in the inter-high series.

When we returned in September, it was to greet Mr. Lawrence G. Hoover as our new principal, Dr. Harvey A. Smith having been appointed Assistant Superintendent of public high schools. A new assistant principal, Mr. John F. Brougher, had also been appointed.

Autumn brought with it "Star Nite," an amateur show. Judges from various professional fields in Washington chose the winners from among the best talent which Central possessed, and there was certainly no lack of it.

Then football monopolized the spotlight and Central placed second among her sister high schools when the season had ended.

The new semester was then upon us and we were sophomores. With spring traditionally came an evening of dramatics, this time in the form of three one-act plays which were enthusiastically received.

Upon the Review was bestowed the highest ranking for American high school magazines while the Bulletin received Second Class Honor Rating.

Great rejoicing resulted when Central's track team won the Inter-High track meet, ending Tech's long supremacy over the cinder paths.

When fall rolled around again, another addition had been made to Central's numerous clubs. It was the Traffic Club, whose membership soon exceeded even the highest hopes of its founders.

Central felt justly proud of itself when it was awarded the coveted Colonelcy of the high school cadet corps.

Although we did beat Tech, we could manage only to tie for second place with Western in football.

Then it was spring and again our status had changed. Now we were up-and-coming juniors.

Central got off to a fine start that year as its swimming team won the South Atlantic Championship and the District A. A. U. Title.

The Bulletin jumped up a notch and received First Class Honor Rating from the National Scholastic Press Association and also International First Honor Rating from Quill and Scroll.

Cadets then came to the fore and our representatives won second place in the regimental drill and third place in the competitive drill.

After another three months vacation, we returned to school to begin a truly banner season.

The annual autumn entertainment consisted of Central's Fair, which ran the gamut from fortune-telling to a real old-fashioned melodrama.

In a subscription contest with Tech, Central easily won.

Our football team vanquished all foes, finishing their inter-high schedule untied and undefeated.

The last lap of our four years' journey through Central was now beginning. It was 1939 and we were seniors.

Cadets became the center of interest and we once more won second place in the regimental drill and also annexed second place in the competitive drill.

Our baseball team won the inter-high championship. Besides the customary trophy, they were presented by Mr. Clark Griffith with a plaque, in commemoration with the one hundreth anniversary of baseball.

Regretfully, our last vacation and our last September hastened to remind us that in only four months our high school days would be just a pleasant memory.

This year another new club has been formed at Central. It is the Esperano Club whose purpose it is to teach that universal language to those interested.

Our football team lost the inter-high championship, but only after a heartbreaking game with Western which made Central supporters feel even more strongly than ever that Central's 1939 team was one of the best in its long history.

The need for brevity compels us to proceed without mentioning in detail the many activities which have been as much a part of the school as those already mentioned but which are considered not quite so colorful to those not closely connected with the school. These include the work of the Student Council and the Junior Red Cross, particularly during Thanksgiving and Christmas, the activities of the "C" Clubs, both boys' and girls', the elections to the National Honor Society and Quill Clique, and the work of innumerable other organizations.

Yes, Central's history has been one of action and intelligence. The mid-year class of 1940 hopes it has aided in upholding the honored name of our school and that it has left some permanent achievement which future students may regard as an addition to Central's glory.

JUNE CLASS VALEDICTORY

ROBERT NAIMAN

At the outset I take this opportunity to thank my fellow graduates of the class of 1940 for selecting me as their valedictorian. While I feel this pleasure deeply, it remains nevertheless a difficult task to make my remarks echo the sentiments of all of you.

Our experience at Central will long be cherished, not only for the good fellowship that we have enjoyed, not only for the fun and excitement that we have shared, but for a greater and more serious reason, that our minds have been molded in a fashion which makes for an understanding of Americanism. For all of this in behalf of my class, I thank the faculty of Central.

As young students ready to enter into the fields of higher education, there is one blessing of which we should be consciously aware. We may enroll in any university in the land. But far more important to us, we have the freedom to choose the course of study we want to pursue in life. Thus, we as Americans, have been endowed with the greatest liberty ever granted unto man. There is no doubt that this distinct privilege is one which is keenly appreciated by every high school graduate in the United States today.

No one can tell us what career to pursue; no one has the authority to dictate our lives for us. While in other parts of the world, young men and women are removed from the class room, and too often unwillingly, to follow military vocations, and to learn the tricks of bombing cities and ruining civilization, we of America are encouraged to remain in the class room and to learn how to make mankind happier and to build up civilizations. We are free men and free women, and as such the heritage of one hundred and fifty years is brought home to us.

This country in the short space of a century and a half has outstripped every other civilization in the history of man. In industry we have taught the world methods of production which have brought a fuller life to most of the people in the world. Europeans with their older culture are amazed at our resourcefulness and energy when they visit our shores. In education we have outdistanced the world. No longer do we need to send our students to foreign countries for study. On the contrary, foreign students now attend our schools to learn our unique methods. We have built a civilization which is different and the final result has been a greater abundance.

And when I ask myself how it has been possible for such a miracle to occur, I need only to recall the early chapters of American history, to recall the men who founded our country. Then I have the answer.

Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Franklin. These men are great because they inculcated into our Constitution the spirit of liberty and the glory of freedom and the love for tolerance. They gave us a document which has been called by historians the most perfect political instrument ever fashioned by the hand of man. It has been our guide and champion in our march towards greatness. They knew that in order to build a powerful nation, a free nation must first be built.

And this is the answer to my question. Our form of government was created through deliberate thought, and each generation has added its share which has made for greater democracy. Our thoughts have been untrammeled, and our words have not been muzzled.

We of this class and hundreds of thousands like ourselves throughout the country can make this challenging objective our mission, as we enter our next stage of life. Whether we attend a university, or whether we seek other fields, let us perpetuate the glorious monument of freedom which our forefathers gave into our care. We all may not have the same ideas, and no doubt, many of our ideas of today will change, but the love of liberty is unchangeable. This doctrine has been grounded into us in our years at Central. Let us carry this torch through our lives and our country will remain that example which may well be copied by the rest of the world.

JUNE CLASS HISTORY

ANN WICKARD

Tonight we can look back on the record which has been made by this year's senior class at Central High School. It has not been easy to make that record. for it involves more than studying books.

As rookies we saw for the first time the requisites of a successful life at Central—a willingness to participate in the activities which are so important to high school life. We saw leaders in every field of student activity bring honor to our school, and we found out what it meant to be a part of many victories they achieved.

We felt a growing pride in our part in the inter-high school competitions, a pride which was doubled when we saw second place in the Regimental Drill taken by Central's cadets, including some of the members of our class. Later in the spring of 1938. Company A took third place in the map problems competition.

Central swimmers proved their worth in the South Atlantic Swimming Meet, for they were the winners.

The publications, "Bulletin" and "Review", continued to live up to the high standards set up many years ago when they were founded. In the 1938 Critical Service of the Quill and Scroll, the "Bulletin" received international honor rating.

Last year, 1939, our football team showed a fighting spirit and ability that won for it the inter-high championship. an honor which was augmented by the fact that it remained untied and unbeaten in the entire series. As supporters of the team as well as active participants in the game, we showed ourselves to be a class of record-makers and breakers. An all-time high in the sale of athletic tickets. a total of more than a thousand, was achieved that season.

Last year our swimming team won first place in the District Amateur Athletic Meet. and last spring the baseball crown of the high schools of Washington was won by Central.

The cadets again brought high honors to Central in the Competitive Drill. This time Company A won second place and, for the first time, first place in the rookie company competition was won by our school.

Company D, headed by Captain Philippe Cardon, won first place in the Brigade map problems finals. and the Colonel Craigie cup was presented to Central.

That school year, 1938-'39, the big entertainment event was the Fair. to which most students in the school contributed some of their talent. The Student Council Christmas Drive for this season ended with enough money. clothes. and other supplies to last many needy families the winter.

This year, our senior year, we shall probably remember the longest. The cadet dances, the Leap Year dance, and the other social events will probably make the last year stand out as one of the happiest.

Spring Swing was the final entertainment in which we. as seniors, could participate. To it, we gave time, money, and earnest effort toward making it the success it proved to be. The Television and Variety shows, the International Cafe. the Melodrama, the Military show, and all the other attractions will be remembered long after we have forgotten the tests and trials of a high school education.

In the journalistic field, the Bulletin won the All-American rating in the National Scholastic Press Association Competition for the second semester of last year. This was the first time such an honor had been achieved by any Washington high school. Again for the first semester of this year, this high rating was awarded to Central.

In the field of sports, the Central Relay Team competed for the National Relay Championship of the United States. Pushing the winner to a new record to beat them, our team won second place. "Babe" Hayden was the winner of the invitation 660 yd. contest in the Maryland Fifth Regimental Meet, in which the finest runners of the East competed.

All these and many other honors were won by our class in the four years we have attended Central. Individuals, as well as teams, have gained for Central the reputation of a school which sends its graduates on with the knowledge that they have earned the right to be proud of their high school. We will remember these four years as years of struggle, but also as years which have rewarded us for what we have contributed.

INFINITE DURATION

(To the Class of 1940)

An apprehensive cloud floats by
In pantomime—dark blue and white.
As it attains a valid high
It liquifies, dissolves from sight,
As individual raindrops fly
Toward vital Life—to do, to try!

These evanescent raindrops start
To destinations far and wide.
The glistening beadlets add their art
To crop or tree, to ocean tide—
Each to its endemic part,
A single, silvery diamond dart.

The sun builds up a mist on high,
A cloud more spacious than before.
Its integration fills the sky,
And drenching showers fall once more.
Again the gatherings liquefy,
Leaving an empty blue-white sky.

JUNIORS

LOOKING FORWARD

June Cohen and Jacqueline Mestekin

What the future holds in store for you, the graduates, no one knows, but we do know that Central will be losing a very capable and cooperative group of students.

Going over the records made this year, we find that on the whole every Centralite has done his part in making Central one of the most outstanding schools in the District.

In the field of sports, we have the football and basketball teams who have attained brilliant victories and close defeats. It will indeed be a hard record for the juniors to surpass.

With regard to the cadets, we can say, with every student of Central behind us, that we hope Central will be carrying away the laurels in the competitive drill.

Of course, we must not forget Central's "Spring Swing", in which the talents of our various classmates were displayed showing another phase of our school interests and abilities. The success of this annual affair should make everyone proud to be a part of Central High School.

The young writers of Central, who are located in the publications office, are looking forward to seeing their names on mastheads, replacing those of the competent seniors who have held the coveted positions in the line of journalism.

Although it will mean a great loss to Central when the seniors leave, there are many students, who are well equipped to start where the others have left off, and who will try to work, always, for the improvement of Central.

So, as we say good-bye to you, our fellow-classmates, we hope that each and everyone of you will have the best of luck, and will reach your goal in whatever field of life you may choose.

FAREWELL TO UNDERCLASSMEN

Eileen Shanahan

We, the class of 1940, who are about to leave Central, salute you, the underclassmen. Now as our final departure draws nearer by leaps and bounds with each passing day, we begin to look to you, our successors, in whose hands we will be leaving the ideals and the traditions that are so much a part of Central.

Central has many traditions. The chief of these is simply making every effort to be the best.

Some of us in this class of 1940 will be going to college on scholarships, just as other Central students have done. You, also will be eligible for these awards. You must uphold Central's reputation for producing scholars.

The Cadet Corps of Central has always carried off high honors. The first corps formed in the city, it has often been first ranking as well. You cadets who will be the commanding officers of the next few years must maintain the high standard of the first regiment.

We have always possessed the reputation of being the best in athletics. In the three years that the class of 1940 has been at Central, we have beaten Tech three times on the football field. And for the first time, we have taken the lead in the total number of games won in this series. Here is a tradition you must maintain!

In recent years our newspaper and magazine, the "Bulletin" and "Review", in competition with publications from all over our nation, have won highest awards. These will not be given on past records. You must keep up their present high quality if we are going to continue to receive these recognitions of merit.

In these, and in all other ways, you must maintain Central's reputation for being the best school. And we know you will.

STRAYER

College of ACCOUNTANCY

DEGREES in Commerce, B.C.S. and M.C.S., are conferred. Graduates meet educational requirements for admission to C.P.A. examinations in the District of Columbia, and 47 states.

YOUNG MEN, Strayer trained, have made splendid records in recent C.P.A. examinations.

STRAYER teaches nationally-known accounting systems based on texts used by over 200 colleges and universities.

New Classes:* SEPTEMBER & FEBRUARY

College of SECRETARIAL TRAINING

GRADUATION from an accredited high school is required for admission. Courses are planned for academic, general, and commercial graduates, and for college students. A diploma from Strayer means "recommended for employment."

REVIEW and speed building classes in Shorthand and Typewriting for those who have attended commercial schools.

DAY and Evening Sessions.
